News of Manchester

Having won the fight, after strong opposition, to extend its line to Sixth copposition, to extend its line to Sixth and Hull Streets, the Seaboard Air Line Railway, through its engineers, is making ready for starting its construction work, which, it is expected, will be well under way before winter sets in. A large force of hands will be put to work on the track, with another on the $50,000 depot, which will be the distributing point for goods shipped into the city by the Seaboard. Though many citzens, especially those in the First Ward, were strongly opposed to the move, the proposed extension is considered by business men of the city to be one of the greatest improvements in the last several years. Wholesalers explain that they will now be able to sell to their local customers, allowing them to haul direct from the depot without charging the drayage that is now added when two hauls are made. The their local customers, allowing them to haul direct from the depot without charging the drayage that is now added when two hauls are made. The retail men will then be able to haul from the depot, which is central to most of them, as they would from any of the wholesale houses, taking their goods directly from the cars. In fact, the new depot will be in the nature of a central warehouse.

Employes of the Seaboard are now engaged in going over the line of the proposed road and settling with property owners as to the right of way.

Hig Canadian Crops.

WINNIPEG, MAN., August 21.—The grain of the Canadian Northwest is being harvested, and the farmers are speculating as to possible prices, particularly of wheat. According to opinions of local grain men, another decline is in store, but it will be slight, and a fairly good and steady price will be maintained. Satisfaction with existing crop conditions is general, and if frost and hall keep of until the cutting is completed, the crop will be a large one. The average estimate of the wheat output is over 100,000,000 bushels.

Building Permits.

Permits were issued in the office of the Building Inspector yesterday morning as follows:

s the fat man's joy-he weighs so nuch less.

They said Precident Taft on Mars could jump twenty feet into the air as assily as he can six inches on earth for the stars and planets, especially in alluding to the snowy poles of moon-less Mars. That is rot, choy said, for Mars has two moons, a slow local moon that makes the round trip in twenty-nine hours, and a limited that makes it every seven hours, and they said she has not pulled in a second late in 3,000,000,000,000 years.

The astronomers resumed their session this evening with a discussion and stereopticon illustrations of sildes made at the various observatories.

Over "a Big One."

DETROIT, MICH., August 21.—"Oh, Jack, I've got a big one!" gleefully exclaimed eight-year-old Harold Glbbons to his brother, John, slightly older, as they were fishing from a dock.

Harold tugged hard on the line, but there was more power at the other end, and he went head foremest into the water. John yelled for help, but before any one came his little brother was drowned. It is supposed that the fish was a carp.

The brothers left home early in the morning, intending to spend the day fishing. They had caught a number of small fish, and were exulting in their luck when the fatal mounts.
